

“Planning Through the Lens of Equity and Engagement”

Friday, November 13, 2015

4:00 to 5:00 PM

Meyer Library Auditorium
Missouri State University

Eric Shaw, Director of the Washington, DC Office of Planning will discuss his role in planning the Nation’s Capital and his previous experience as Community & Economic Development Director for Salt Lake City, Utah, the Director of Community Planning for the Louisiana Recovery Authority post Katrina, and his work in the nonprofit and philanthropic sectors in Miami, FL and Silicon Valley.

Mr. Shaw emphasizes inclusive planning and will talk about planning communities for minority populations, addressing poverty, and managing rapid growth.

Shaw earned a Bachelor’s of Arts in International Development and Policy Studies from the University of California, Los Angeles and a Master’s degree in Urban Planning from the Harvard University Graduate School of Design.

This presentation is open to the public. A reception will follow the event in the library lounge.
