

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHY AWARENESS WEEK

NOV 17TH THROUGH 21ST

Join us for a week-long celebration of Geography by attending presentations on

- Geotourism / Sustainable travel and development
- The use of unmanned aircraft (drones)
- River dynamics
- Hiking in Yellowstone National Park

Monday, Nov. 17th at 4 pm in the Library Auditorium (room 101): Dr. Judy Meyer, Department of Geography, Geology and Planning, Missouri State University, “When the Past Meets the Present: Re-Photography in Yellowstone National Park.”

Tuesday, Nov. 18th at 4 pm in the Library Auditorium (room 101) : Dr. Dimitri Ioannides, Senior Fellow at Missouri State University and Professor of Human Geography at Mid-Sweden University, “On the ‘Green Road’: Sustainable Tourism between Norway and Sweden.” Library auditorium, room 101, 4 pm.

Wednesday, Nov. 19th: National Geographic Information Systems Day! Exhibits, events, and information available all day in the Temple Hall Pit. Then, at 4 pm in Temple Auditorium 002: Jim Peterson, UAS and Surveying Director at Surdex Corporation, St. Louis, MO, “The D-Word: Drones and Geospatial Science.”

Thursday, Nov. 20th at 4 pm in Temple Auditorium 002: Samantha Hogenson, Washington Program Associate, Center for Responsible Travel, “Geography, Geotourism, and Responsible Travel: The Key to our Future.”

Friday, Nov. 21st at 3 pm in Temple Auditorium 002: Dr. Derek Martin, Department of Geography and Planning, Appalachian State University, “Reading the River: Looking at Patterns to Understand Processes in River Systems.”